The three local men were named during the present 29th annual convention of the New York State Department of the American Legion now meeting at Niagara Falls. The convention, which opened Thursday, will adjourn today.

During the state convention this week Mr. Heiselman and Thomas Bohan, past county commander, appeared at the Niagara Falls radio station and were guests on a 15-minute broadcast. A transcription of the program was made and will be used on the local station at a future date.

Arthur Duffy, Queens county, was expected to be named the next state commander at today's election. He was without opposition, it was reported this morning.

A resolution was passed during the convention thanking Senator Arthur H. ### Garages and Parking Lots to Be Licensed

New York, Aug. 2 (AP)—All garages and parking lots in New York city will be required to have licenses by Sept. 30 under a new law signed by Mayor William O'Dwyer.

The law, designed to curb abuses in the industry, was signed yesterday after a public hearing. Benjamin Fielding, commissioner of licenses, announced that licenses would be issued beginning Sept. 1.

The mayor commented that the new law was intended to protect the public against conditions imposed on them by operators who "take advantage of the situation." "Legitimate garage owners" will not be hurt by the regulation, he added.

Garage and parking lot owners will be forbidden to take in more automobiles than they accommodate legitimately. The new law also requires them to file ratification schedules with the license commissioner and to post rates for their establishments, and it provides for license fees ranging from $5 for a 25-vehicle establishment to $100 for one accommodating 100 or more cars.

Terse Notes Dispatched to Two Governments After the Security Council Decision

BY LARRY HAUCK

Lake Success, Aug. 2 (AP)—The United Nations today moved swiftly to stop the conflict in Indonesia with unprecedented orders to the Netherlands and Indonesian Governments to cease hostilities immediately.

Terse notes were dispatched to the two governments within a few hours after last night's far-reaching Security Council decision calling upon them to stop fighting and settle their disputes by arbitration or other peaceful means.

The council debated only two days before issuing the cease-fire order in the strongest action ever taken by an U. N. organ. The hostilities began July 20.

To enforce its decision, the council under the U. N. Charter can pull out the most potent weapons in its arsenal—economic sanctions and severance of diplomatic relations by all 55 members—and, as a last resort, "such action by air, land and sea forces as may be necessary to maintain or restore international peace and security."

The vote was 8 to 0 with Britain, France and Belgium abstaining.

Russia and the United States, the latter author of the final resolution, split only when delegates voted down a Soviet demand that Dutch and Indonesian troops be withdrawn to positions they held at the start of military operations.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko insisted that otherwise the Dutch would have an advantage in the negotiations. Both parties were expected to comply with the council verdict, although Dutch Ambassador Eelco N. Van Kleffens stalked out after the session with a "no comment whatsoever" statement to reporters.

In fighting a losing battle to block the move, Van Kleffens earlier advised delegates that his government hoped hostilities would cease at the earliest possible moment. "More I am not authorized to say at this time," he added.

Van Kleffens was in almost constant transatlantic telephonic communication with the Hague throughout the debate. He repeatedly contended that the fighting was an internal affair and the council had no authority.

An American spokesman said that the U. S. Government's offer of "good offices" to both sides still stood. The Dutch "gladly accepted" the offer and dispatches from Batavia indicated that the Indonesian Government would accept conditionally at least.

Britain, France and Belgium fought the move all through the debate. French Delegate Alexandre Parodi even telling the council after the balloting that he would have preferred to vote against the resolution but abstained because his veto would have killed it.

Passage of the resolution also served to give official council recognition to the Indonesian Government, a point hotly contested by Van Kleffens in his speeches. The Indonesian case was brought to the council by India and Australia. The latter invoked chapter seven, which makes provision for the use of force, and the case was heard under articles of that chapter.

Sharp Disappointment

Batavia, Java, Aug. 2 (AP)—The history making decision of the United Nations Security Council to ask Indonesian and Netherlands to cease fighting was met with sharp disappointment.

Uptrend in Coal Prices Indicated By Local Survey

Some Dealers Foresee Growing Shortage Due to Exporting of Coal Abroad

A continued uptrend in coal prices through the fall and winter was indicated through a survey of local dealers today.

Recent increases in costs to dealers at the mines has fixed the retail price generally at $17 a ton for the higher grade coal and some dealers foresee a growing shortage in the weeks to come because of the heavy exporting of coal abroad.

The price of coal today, said one dealer, is nearly double the average in 1940, and it was reported that the dealers are paying as much as $2 more a ton at the mines than they charged to deliver a ton in the bins in 1940.

The average prices as quoted by one dealer are: Egg coal, $18 with $1 off for cash, the same for stove coal; $16 for pea, $13 for buckwheat, $12 for rice and $16 for amber with $1 off on each for cash.

The dealer reported that the price of coal today was the highest experienced in 14 years of continued on Page Three

Represented in Listing by Committee Are Accounts for Big Dinners, Parties

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—The Senate War Investigating Committee placed in its records today a compilation intended to show that publicity man John Meyer listed expenditures of $5,083.79 for entertainment of Elliott Roosevelt.

Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich.) said the listing represented entries made by Meyer on expense accounts turned in for entertaining the son of the late president in 1943 and 1944; while Meyer was working for Howard Hughes, millionaire plane builder and movie producer.

Represented in the committee's compilation were accounts for dinners and parties in New York and Hollywood night spots.

The list, headed "Col. Elliott Roosevelt," contained one entry, under date of August 27, 1943, which said:

"Entertained by John Meyer: Dinner—Statler Hotel—$76.00. Girls at hotel (late) $50.00. William P. Rogers, committee counsel, told reporters the listing included wording in Meyer's handwriting, from expense vouchers now in the committee's possession.

Manufacturing Payrolls Keep Even Keel in June

New York, Aug. 2—Gains in employment were reported in New York state between May and June in the food products, electrical equipment, shipbuilding, furniture and stone, clay and glass industries according to Industrial Commissioner Edward Corsi of the State Department of Labor.

Despite these increases, manufacturing employment in the state as a whole declined 20,000, but widespread wage increases help up the level of payrolls in most industries even in the face of losses of employees. These statements are based on reports from 2,000 representative manufacturing firms throughout the state, tabulated by the Division of Placement and Unemployment Insurance.

Although employment decreased in the metals and machinery group, payrolls advanced in all branches except machinery and automotive equipment. While payrolls increased in the iron and steel industry, a net decrease in employment was caused by losses in cutlery and razor blade factories, in foundries, and in the miscellaneous group. Steel mills hired additional workers. Some wage-rate increases were reported.

Employment declined in non-ferrous metals, though payrolls were higher and basic wage rates increased.

Gains in employment were made in the electrical machinery and communication equipment industries. A strike was settled in one communication equipment concern. Payrolls were considerably higher because several plants increased wage rates.

The automobile industry reported shortages of material and curtailed activity. Shipyards registered large gains in both employment and payrolls.

Preliminary tabulations show a net loss of about 4,000 workers in continued on Page Nine

Fall From Doodle Bug Is Fatal

Was on Their Return Home from Getting Water at Spring Near Kerhonkson

Hit Pavement

Was Accompanied by His Three Brothers on Choke

Roy Decker, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Decker of Shaft 2-A road, Kerhonkson, died of a fractured skull and loss of blood about 7:25 o'clock Friday evening at the Ellenville Hospital as a result of injuries sustained when he fell off a "doodle bug," a converted 1929 Chevrolet sedan. The accident occurred about 7 o'clock.

Coroner Arthur C. Chipp investigated the accident and announced a verdict of accidental death. The youth was rushed to the hospital where he died before doctors could examine him.

According to Coroner Chipp, Roy was accompanied by his brothers Leon, 20, Donald 8 and Perley 12, on their return home from getting water at a spring on the Fordmore road, just outside of Kerhonkson last night.

When the vehicle was about 200 yards from the spring, Roy suddenly fell off and hit the pavement. Leon, the operator of the car, told authorities that at the time of the accident, the vehicle was proceeding at about five miles an hour.

His brothers rushed Roy to the George Decker farm on the Minnewaska Trail and from there Joseph Stevens of Kerhonkson brought the injured youth to the office of Dr. Alfred M. Feldshuh in Kerhonkson.

An ambulance was summoned but when notified it was not available. Dr. Feldshuh called Ed Decker's taxi and rushed the boy to the Ellenville Hospital. Before any hospital physician could examine him, the boy was dead. Dr. Anthony Ruggeria, Ellenville, also was summoned to the hospital but arrived after young Decker had died.

Hospital authorities immediately notified Coroner Chipp and state police at Wurtsboro. After examining the body, Coroner Chipp gave the verdict as accidental death due to a fractured skull and loss of blood.

Besides his parents, Roy is survived by 11 brothers and sisters, Ray, Leon, Mildred, Frances, Peter, Janet, Perley, Donald, Irvin, Burton and Douglas.

Funeral arrangements have not been made as yet.

Seek Seven Planes Reported Headed for 'Foreign Country'

Fast Former Combat Planes Sold as Surplus; May Be in Civilian Hands

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP)—Government officials said today a widespread search is on for seven fast former army combat planes reported to be headed for a "foreign country" after an unauthorized takeoff from a Florida field.

Edson J. Shamhart, deputy commissioner of the Bureau of Customs, confirmed reports from Florida that an "alert" was ordered to prevent the planes from leaving this country, if they have not done so already. They are two fast-flying P-38s, and five P-52s. War Department officials said some of these planes, used by American flyers in the war, have been sold as surplus and may be in the hands of civilians.

"There are plenty of young fellows in this country who know how to fly these ships," one officer said.

Officials here would neither confirm nor deny that the planes have actually taken to the air.

At Tampa, Fla., A. A. Brantley, deputy collector of customs, said he had asked all Florida airports to be on the lookout.

Gilbert Glynn, a civil aeronautics administration communicator at Knoxville, Tenn., said a message from his Atlanta office reported the planes were missing.

This information came from the Florida highway patrol.

The patrol renewed its search begun late yesterday of deserted army air fields, dotted about the state, for signs of plane departure. Continued on Page Three

Slept in Park

Police Find Evicted Family Who Spent Nights in Park

New York, Aug. 2 (AP)—Two radio car patrolmen found a man and three children standing over his sick wife lying on a stone bench outside an entrance to Prospect Park in Brooklyn yesterday, learned the family had been evicted and had slept in the park for three nights.

Mrs. Virginia Allen, 40, who was suffering from malnutrition, was taken to a hospital. Police provided food for Raymond Allen, 45, an unemployed handyman, and his barefooted children, Carol, 2½, and Albert and Arthur, 5-year-old twins. An the City Welfare Department was apprised of the family's plight.

Police learned that the family had been ejected from a cold water flat two weeks ago, and had been sleeping in the park, in the rear of a restaurant, in a storehouse or with friends.

Allen said he was down to 50 cents and that the family had been existing on milk and bread and little else.

State Department Of Motor Vehicles To Be Considered

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP)—A joint legislative committee will study the advisability of creating a state department of motor vehicles and transportation, State Senator Seymour Halpern said today.

The committee will investigate motor vehicle and traffic problems and analyze functions of the present Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Halpern said in an address prepared for the 24th Annual Conference of the New York State Automobile Dealers Association.

It proposes to lay the groundwork for the most constructive program of motor vehicle legislation ever offered in any state, the Queens Republican added.

The Bureau of Motor Vehicles now is a unit of the State Department of Taxation and Finance.

Lyman W. Slack of Detroit, vice president and general manager of the Packard Motor Car Company, said in a prepared address that automobile dealers should sponsor or participate in traffic safety campaigns as a service to their communities.

Slack, chairman of the National Inter-Industry Highway Safety Committee, suggested that dealers advocate courses on drive-training in high schools, aid in solving parking problems, back better enforcement of traffic laws and spark the improvement of streets and highways.

Halpern said his committee probably would make initial recommendations by the end of next February to Governor Dewey and the legislature.

"We are interested in a plan to study the question of reciprocal driving licenses and registration, as well as compulsory automobile insurance," he added.

"We are also interested in persons who are consistently involved in accidents will be considered."

New Paltz Teachers' Campus Will Consist of 53 Acres

Although the construction date for new buildings is still uncertain, the expanded New Paltz State Teachers' College campus will consist of 53.401 acres over an area extending from Hasbrouck avenue and Plattekill avenue on the northeast to the village limits to the east side of Highway 208 on the southwest, it has been reported.

When it became evident sometime ago that the continued growth of the college in number of students, larger faculty, new buildings and play field, would require a larger land area, it was decided to purchase several parcels of land lying east and south of the existing campus.

Accordingly, options were secured on certain lands owned by the New Paltz Lumber Company, Mr. and Mrs. Van Alstaid, Mrs. Sam Dayton to the east, and various

Believe He Was One of Two Abducted Two Weeks Ago

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON
Jerusalem, Aug. 2 (AP)—An unidentified Jew was found slain today on a roadside near Petah Tiqva east of Tel-Aviv.

Authorities expressed belief he was one of two Jews reported abducted by English-speaking men in army uniforms south of Tel-Aviv about two weeks ago.

Edward Curtis of the Associated Press reported from Tel-Aviv that a taxicab driver told him he found the body at 10 a. m. and estimated that the Jew had been dead 12 hours. Two Arabs near the scene said, Curtis reported, that they had seen the body hurled from a passing truck a short time earlier.

Curtis said the all-Jewish continued on Page Three

Seek Seven Planes

Patrolmen reported their search so far was fruitless.

A check of all fields between New Orleans and the Mexican border brought no news of the missing planes. Border patrol officials said they had not been alerted.

Officials declined to express an opinion on the destination of the last little detour but one, declining the use of his name, observed: "You know there has been some trouble in the Caribbean."

A dispatch from Port-au-Prince today said Haitians returning from the Dominican republic were quoted by Port-au-Prince newspapers as explaining they left because of apprehension over heavy troop movements.

Dominican Ambassador Julio Ortega Frier said here last Saturday that an army of 3,000 "Communist revolutionaries" from Cuba, Guatemala, Venezuela and Puerto Rico was mobilized in Cuba for an invasion. But Venezuelan, Cuban and Guatemalan officials have denied any knowledge of such an army.

An army spokesman said the American combat planes have a range "around 1,200 miles" if equipped with spare gasoline tanks.

Customs officials said they were asked by other government departments to intercept the planes and prevent them from leaving the country without permission. It is illegal to remove military equipment without a license, he added. This applies as well to war surplus sales.

This official said "this is a delicate situation" and he couldn't disclose what other departments are "interested."

The Army Air Forces described the P-38 in 1944 as a twin engine fighter, all metal, with twin bomb supports and twin tails. Its speed was estimated at 400 miles per hour, with a ceiling of 40,000 feet with a "tactical radius of action" of more than 400 miles.

The speed of the P-51 also was estimated then at 400 miles per hour; ceiling 30,000 feet and a range of 400 miles "as a fighter," and 250 miles as a "fighter-bomber."

The P-38 was armed with one 20 mm cannon and four .50 caliber guns in the nose. The P-51 was armed with four .50 caliber guns. The bomb load of the P-38 was 2,000 pounds and of the P-51, 1,000 pounds.

Ambassador Ortega Frier said he had heard nothing about the planes.

Elliott Roosevelt

ected a reversal of an air corps decision not to purchase a photo-reconnaissance plane manufactured by Hughes, also included entries for Faye Emerson, now Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt.

Challenges Claims
John W. Meyer, party-throwing publicity man for Howard Hughes, today challenged claims of the Senate war investigating committee that he had spent more than $2 million over three years entertaining Elliott Roosevelt.

Meyer previously has testified in closed sessions of the committee that he introduced Miss Emerson, a movie actress; to the son of the late president.

One of the committee's complaints under the "Col. Roosevelt" heading for August 25, 1943, said:
"Entertained by John Meyer: (Faye Emerson) . . . 750
"Nylon hose for present 132.00
"Cash to travel home . . . 20.00
In December, 1944, the listing showed Meyer claimed to have paid $159.41 to a plane pilot, Paul Franklin, "for services rendered Col. Roosevelt wedding party" in a four-day trip to Valle, Ariz. Roosevelt married Miss Emerson on December 3, 1944.

Among those listed by Meyer as guests at the parties, along with Roosevelt, were Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. William Powell, Lt. Col. John Hoover, Patricia Clark, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Boettiger, Mrs. James Roosevelt and Mrs. John Roosevelt.

According to Meyer's vouchers, applied at the post office, he spent a total of $2,080.40 in entertaining Roosevelt and his friends in 1943. That was the year in which the late president's son reportedly convinced the War Department it should give Hughes the contract for the photo-reconnaissance plane.

In 1944, Meyer listed expenditures of $2,304.74 for parties for Roosevelt and his friends, with $698.65 spent in 1945.

Meyer's entertainment of Roosevelt began in August, 1943, the expense vouchers showed. One of the early vouchers, dated August 22, read:

"Dinner party—Monte Carlo Club, $163.00.
"Dinner—Leon and Eddies, $78.00.
"Presents for 2 girls, $75.00."

Meyer has testified in closed sessions that he paid New York and Hollywood girls as much as $125 to go to dinner with him and his guests. He said he often gave them expensive presents, sometimes cash.

The records were introduced as Ferguson called on Meyer to name the army officers and government officials he took night clubbing in Hughes' behalf.

This was the tack taken by a Senate investigation as it moved into the sixth day of an inquiry into $40,000,000 worth of contracts awarded to Hughes and Henry J. Kaiser.

With Meyer on the stand, Ferguson told a reporter he wants the witness to identify all of his entertainment expense accounts "with all names."

"I don't want to smear anybody, but this fellow testified that he spent this money," the Michigan senator said, referring to previous testimony given by Meyer in closed sessions of the Senate War Investigating Committee.

Krug Also Listed
Besides Elliott Roosevelt, Meyer also listed Secretary of Interior Krug, Gov. Mon. Wallgren of Washington and many high army officers as among those he entertained. Krug has denied being at some of the parties where Meyer said the cabinet member was present.

Although the entertainment angle held the spotlight today, there was a promise of further fireworks when Chairman Brewster (R-Mc.) of the full committee and Hughes line up across the committee table.

Hughes announced last night that he will leave Los Angeles Monday on a two-day flight here in time to appear before the committee Wednesday.

In case Senator Brewster is interested, Hughes said in a statement distributed by his publicity office, "I have gone away for the week-end to get a little rest."

The statement came as a deputy United States Marshal, armed with a subpoena for Hughes' appearance "forthwith" before the committee, sought the plane manufacturer in Los Angeles.

Hughes said "I intend to return to Los Angeles Monday, climb in my airplane, fly half way across the continent Monday, spend the night at some point en route, as is my normal procedure, and continue on to Washington, arriving late Tuesday, in time for my appointment to testify before the senator on Wednesday."

"I want to make it clear that I have the utmost respect for the U. S. Senate. But I have no respect for Senator Brewster."

Brewster blasted back yesterday at the Hollywood plane builder's assertion he would ask the Justice Department to inquire into the Maine senator's possible connection with Pan-American Airways. Hughes charged earlier this week that Brewster offered to call off the inquiry if a merger of Pan-American and Trans-World Airlines (T.W.A.), which Hughes largely owns, could be brought about.

In a statement, Brewster said that "if there were a word of truth in the charges now being made by Howard Hughes they should have been presented to the attorney general last February at the time of the alleged proposal."

"One does not wait six months where a blackmail charge is involved," he declared, adding: "I will welcome the most thorough exploration of this charge by the attorney general in justice to all concerned."

(A Justice Department official said last night that the department has not yet received any request from Hughes for an investigation of Brewster.)

Brewster offered to waive his rights as a senator and appear before the committee as a witness after Hughes testifies.

Meyer, who testified that he was a Hollywood night club operator before he went to work for Hughes, told the committee in public hearing yesterday he doesn't remember when he first met young Roosevelt.

The committee had heard previously from Maj. Gen. Oliver P. Echols that Roosevelt, then an army colonel, had picked Hughes' F-11 plane as the best for photo-reconnaissance work in 1943 after Air Corps experts had flatly rejected it. Echols, now retired, was wartime chief of the Air Corps Material Command.

This action, the committee was told, resulted in reversal within a week by Gen. H. H. Arnold, then chief of the Air Corps, of an order to drop negotiations with Hughes for purchase of the plane.

Hughes later got an order for 100 of the ships which finally was reduced to two at a cost, Ferguson said, of about $22,000,000 to the government.

Arnold confirmed last night his order for the 100 planes with the observation, "hindsight is all very well, but at that time they wanted planes and wanted them fast."

Asked if he thought the Hughes plane a good one, Arnold answered: "I didn't say it. We needed the best equipment we could get in a hurry."

Available Monday
Roosevelt said in Boston yesterday he will be available here Monday to "say my piece."

Ferguson, in brief questioning of Meyer yesterday, observed that the period covered by expense vouchers obtained by the committee extended over eight days.

"You were continuously entertaining Elliott Roosevelt and Faye Emerson?" Ferguson asked.

Meyer—That is right.
Ferguson—Why?

business, but another source recalled that coal in the years of World War 1 had sold as high as $22 a ton.

The dealers reported a variation of prices at the mines for different grades of coal and the price range locally is determined by the cost at the mines, but the differences are measured in a few cents higher or lower.

One dealer reported that an attempt to offset possible later shortages through the buying of coal from an "independent" producer resulted in a shipment of coal of inferior quality, which he was forced to reject.

Another dealer stressed the point that in view of possible later shortages and expected later price increases that local residents should place orders as early as possible.

Local retailers, the dealer said, are usually able to make more and quicker deliveries when the weather is favorable than in the late fall and winter months.

The major factor in the recent boost in coal prices at the mines is the $1.20 a day increase granted the miners.

Meyer—As I said, in the interests of the Hughes Aircraft Company, which was my job. I was merely doing my job.

Ferguson asked if Meyer knew then that Roosevelt was "connected with the army—he was a colonel in the army?"

Meyer—That is right.
Ferguson—You further knew that he was the son of the President of the United States?

Meyer—That is right.
Ferguson—And you knew he had something to do, at least, with the getting of a contract or the giving of a contract, put it that way, to the Hughes Aircraft company, an airplane, the F-11?

Meyer—Yes.

FIRE IS ALWAYS IMMINENT

Summer and early fall present special seasonal fire hazards which are of particular concern in small towns, forests, and agricultural areas.

Carelessness in the forests has destroyed millions of acres of magnificent timber—and has robbed the country of beautiful vacation spots. Under certain conditions, living trees become literally explosive. A large proportion of forest fires are the sole and direct result of carelessness on the part of campers, hunters and fishermen. The most extreme care must be taken in disposing of cigarette butts, matches and other inflammables. They must never be thrown from cars. And, when you are through with a campfire, take every precaution to make sure it is out. Soak it with water, then bury it in dirt.

On the farm, constant vigilance is the price of fire safety. Wide firebreaks should be plowed around grain fields and haystacks. Barns and houses should be free of rubbish. Every care should be taken with gasoline and other burnable liquids. Most farms are far from fire departments and when a serious fire breaks out, heavy loss is inevitable.

The only way to lick fire is to work on the proposition that it is always imminent—and to act accordingly.

The year 1947 should go down in history as the one in which, in a public competition a midwestern child blew her bubble gum out nine inches.

YOUTH AT THE WHEEL

An interview with insurance and safety officials in one of our large cities uncovers the fact that there is one fatal accident for each two million miles driven by the 16-year-old driver group. For the ages 20 to 25, the average is one in eight million, while the more cautious 45 to 50 group has one fatality to every 21 million miles driven.

"Junior drivers are poison," This is what insurance men say of the youngsters who take off in Father's car nearly every evening, scattering destruction in their wake.

We have taught the children to drive, or they have learned by watching, and they seem to have an instinctive grasp of the mechanics of the operation. But there is much more than mechanics involved in driving a car. Courtesy, consideration, common sense and good judgment are even more important than driving ability as such. In driving, as in other fields, it is character that counts. No one should be allowed to control so huge a potential of destruction as an automobile until he can prove maturity of judgment and self-control.

A Gallup Poll shows three-fourths of the American people now in favor of military training. Is their thinking moving from romance to reality?

THE TWO REAL PARTIES

Name the two chief political parties, Democrats and Republicans? Not so, Pearl Buck, the novelist, told the General Federation of Women's Clubs the other day. These, she says, are just names. The real line is between the world-minded and the individual-minded, those who think that the United States should actively try to pull the world out of its desperate situation, and those who would wash their hands of it all.

Logically the major parties should divide along these lines, with one group in one party and the other in the opposition. Actually American parties are not built that way. Both parties have interventionists and isolationists, high-tariff advocates and low-tariff advocates, Congressmen who try to help the employer and Congressmen who try to help labor. It is not logically defensible, but it has always been so; and, it may be suspected, will always be.

MUSIC IN THE HILLS

I am not a musician nor even a music critic. But I like to go to concerts. Every other Sunday, during the winter, when I am in New York, I go to Carnegie Hall to listen to the Philharmonic. During the summer, when I am up in the Berkshires in Massachusetts, I go to Tanglewood three times each week to listen to the Boston Symphony during the Festival.

I do not try to understand music as I do a table of statistics or the politics of Henry Wallace. There are scientists called musicologists who devote themselves to understanding music. With them, it is like mathematics, something with formulas.

I just go to listen. I like Tanglewood most of all because I can see the pine-covered hills and the sky while I listen. I even like it when it rains. Sometimes it is good to listen to music and rain. It is soothing.

This year I shall hear all nine of Beethoven's symphonies, one right after the other in order. That will be a new experience for me, although I have tried it with records. Still, records are not the same as sitting in the big shed in Tanglewood up in the green Berkshires. No records can be like that.

I know that I shall stretch my legs, relax, maybe chew a cigar, and listen. Do I know why Beethoven wrote No. 1 or No. 5 or No. 9? No! And I don't care. It would be the same to me if his name were Smith or Jones. All I want to do is to listen and to be transported to the infinite.

So the musicians spoil it all for me. They play something by Aaron Copland that hits me over the head. To me it is no longer music because I cannot listen. I am pushed. I am kicked around. It has something to do with the Century of Common Man or the Nazi or the Communist or other busy-bodies. It is a factory, a mill, a mine. It is terrible—that is the noise is terrible.

Then I came the next day and they give me a dose of Stravinsky which sounds in places like a million GI's rubbing dungarees on tin washboards. The rubbing is fearsome. I am told that it all has to do with some kind of ancient Russian spring-time ritualistic dance. If that is a Russian spring-time, then those people have never walked down a lane with a pretty girl in the newness of the year. If that is the music they used to dance to, it must have been done with caterpillar tractors.

The critics say this is absolute music, but I am a simple fellow who likes Beethoven, Brahms, Schubert and even Jerome Kern and Gershwin. So do I have to like noise, too? Do I have to go to Tanglewood to hear the Boston Symphony produce the sounds of a newspaper press room? Maybe the critics like the arithmetic of music; as for me, give me beauty of melody, rapture of expression, intensity of feeling. I leave the physics of the celestial orbs to the atomic scientists. Their music is boom! That's really what Copland and Stravinsky sound like to me—just a lot of boom.

Maybe I ought not to step into the domain of the music critics. They apparently know what it is all about and like it. Or maybe, up at Tanglewood, they ought to have special sessions for critics and musicologists and such experts who can do their calculus while they watch Maestro Koussevitzky or his prestige, Leonard Bernstein, belabor their minions through the cacophony called modern music. But for simple folks who just want to listen to beauty, this fare is too heady, like vodka spiked with anisette.

And the question arises: Why must everything modern be so exhibitionistic, so bombastic, so tough on the ear and the soul? Why must it all sound like a lie—like a small boy's lie? Why must even music be so unmanly, so gross, so grotesque? Youth tells me it is the spirit of the age—two wars with a depression in between. What a spiritless age!

KEEPING ACTIVE AS WE GROW OLDER

For many years our children's specialists came in for well-deserved praise because, by saving the lives of infants and children from the dread summer diarrhoea, diphtheria and other diseases of children, they extended the life for many years.

Thus, even 30 years ago the death rate at birth and during the first year was 3 in every 10; today the death rate at this age is about 1 in 20. However, the fact that so many more infants and babies came through this period safely meant that many of them would not be rugged and would die at and before middle age.

It is only too true that we are losing many men and women at middle age because of heart and blood vessel ailments, yet the average length or span of life is increasing at a more rapid rate than ever before.

Until very recently we have looked upon the age of 70—the three score years and ten—as the limit that most of us will ever attain. It will come as a surprise to older people that the "average" span of life, not just for a few, in the "Statistical Bulletin" of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company it is stated that while 66 refers to the population as a whole, the expectation of life at birth for white females is now 69½ years or only one-half year less than the biblical three score and ten.

For the retirement age for men and women has been placed at 65, it means that many will retire or be retired for several years thereafter, and it is what they will do with those years that will make for their happiness or for their discontent. Of course, many will have to keep on working because they need the money and others will continue because they like their work and will not allow themselves to be considered old.

For those who are, the saying that to be happy we must add "not years to our life, but life to our years" is true and we should make our life worth something to others. For those who are alling—have one or more of the ailments common to the elderly—the new specialist, the geriatrician, is trained to treat and give relief in these ailments just as the pediatrician treats infants and children.

to Turkey, and more than all these, the author of "Ben Hur."

"Ben Hur" has now been edged out of the picture; but many can remember when a copy flanked the Bible on the table in every parlor. Year in and year out this fictional story of Christ was a best-seller, and an unfailing hit on the stage, with play-goers sitting on the edge of their chairs to watch the famous chariot race. Many who thought the theatre wicked made an exception of "Ben Hur."

Later it had great success in the movies.

Lew Wallace wrote other popular novels. "The Fair God" was a story of Mexico in the days of the Spanish Conquest. Another favorite was "The Prince of India." But nothing else he ever did, and little that was done by anyone else, became such an essential part of American life as "Ben Hur."

Ripley's 'Believe It or Not' Will Appear in The Freeman

By MEL HEIMER

In the twenty-seven years that Robert L. Ripley has been drawing his daily history of the wierder side of this world, the phrase "Believe It or Not" has come to be accepted as a genial, wide-eyed title for his cartoons. Indeed, Bob Ripley is a genial, wide-eyed guy. But few of us realize that when Robert first used the phrase, he really MEANT it—he hurled it as a disgusted, scornful challenge at his readers, with an I-don't-care-if-you-do attitude.

"Believe it or Not" will appear in The Freeman beginning Monday, August 4.

Somewhat slimmer then, and given to long lazy stretches of dreaming over his drawing board while he imagined himself pitching for the New York Giants, Bob was sitting at his desk December 18, 1918, hunting an idea for a sports cartoon. It came hard. In the sports world, December was a deadly dull period.

Finally, Rip kicked aside the many crumpled balls of paper at his feet, put a fresh sheet on his board and drew "Champs and Chumps" at the top and sketched in a series of unusual happenings in the sports world—the man who walked across the continent backwards, the Frenchman who stayed under water 6 minutes and 29 seconds, etc.

"Oh, this is a stinker," Bob thought grimly to himself as he drew. "I'll be fired tomorrow." But, shaking his head frequently, he stuck to what he considered his dismal task until it was finished. Then, he scratched out "Champs and Chumps" and, in a burst of emotion, painted "Believe It or Not" atop the sketch.

"And see if I care," he said to himself wearily. Then he turned the cartoon in to Walter St. Denis, his sports editor at the old New York Globe, and went across the street for a cup of coffee. He had, he meditated morosely, completed a lousy day's work.

But for centuries the wise men have been telling us truth is stranger than fiction—and, they should have added, twice as interesting. Ripley's challenging "Believe It or Not" caught on like wildfire. It was soon appearing weekly, then twice a week and finally daily. Ripley went to the New York Post, where the cartoon first was syndicated, and then in 1929 moved over to King Features Syndicate—which in 16 years has promoted the feature so it appears in over 300 American papers and nearly 40 foreign lands.

To maintain the excellence and interest of the daily panel, of course, Ripley has traveled more than any living man; he has been in more than 200 countries in the course of hunting the unusual. Places like Aden-Meyera, Borneo, Bechuanaland, Bahawalpur, Inini Territory, Herzegovina, North Caucasus, Zaza, and others that you and I can't even sneeze, let alone pronounce.

Bob has made enough material himself for a "Believe It or Not" cartoon on one day. He usually goes on from 7 to 11 a. m. after which he turns to such things as sailing the Chinese junk he bought recently, looking over his mail—and once again now, he says with relish, poring through maps of the world to see where he can go that he's never been before.

Sometimes he works on as many as 20 cartoons at once. A day usually goes on from 7 to 11 a. m. after which he turns to such things as sailing the Chinese junk he bought recently, looking over his mail—and once again now, he says with relish, poring through maps of the world to see where he can go that he's never been before.

Questions—Answers

Q—Does true amber really make a noise?

Full Support Is Assured Maverick Theatre Players

Woodstock, Aug. 2—A campaign on a virtual scholarship basis opened here Friday in support of the program of the Maverick Theatre group for the balance of the season.

Contributions totalling $200 were reported at the end of the first day of the drive and it was reported that others had pledged to contribute later.

The ambitious program of the group of young, talented players, suffered from lack of local support at the outset, but new interest in the group arose of consistent reports of outstanding work by many of the players in recent performances.

Decision to conduct the campaign as a stimulant to the young players for the rest of the season followed a meeting of interested Woodstockers and several of the players in the village yesterday.

The drive gained new impetus at the performance last night when an enthusiastic audience cheered the performance of "They Knew What They Wanted," in which Ernest Yacovino as Tony won special acclaim.

I DID NOT!

Never, have I advised anybody to pick up fried chicken wings, legs or whatever else at a dining table. This answers the following letter: "My school teacher said the proper way to eat fried chicken was with a knife and fork. Mother said she was sure that one time she read something you said about eating off most of the meat and then picking up the little bones which are very difficult to eat bare with a knife and fork. Did you? If so, will you please repeat this information so we can send it to my teacher?"

The only place where it is proper to pick up such bones with the fingers is at a picnic.

Inviting the Congregation

Dear Mrs. Post: Do wedding invitations have to be sent to each one in my fiancé's congregation? I'd like to include them because they are all his friends, but it would make an appalling number of invitations to provide and we'd like to know if there is some other way to invite them. Also what to do about any reception? Our house is so small, only our families and a few intimate friends can be included.

Answer: Invitations to the church as well as the reception should be sent to families and most intimate friends. Your fiancé, speaking from the pulpit on the Sunday before your marriage, quite properly could invite the entire congregation to the service. Under these circumstances you and your husband could then wait in the church vestibule to receive congratulations immediately following your marriage service. Meanwhile, your families would go on to the house and wait to welcome you there.

"Hello!" Limited

Dear Mrs. Post: When a person meets a friend in a store or anywhere in public and says, "Hello" and then comes across this person again later or perhaps even twice after that in the same afternoon, does he say "Hello" each time, just smile or what?

Answer: Say what comes naturally.

Arranging the table for breakfast, lunch, dinner or supper is explained fully in Mrs. Post's book, No. 504, "The Etiquette of Table Setting." To obtain a copy send 10 cents (coin preferred) and a 3-cent stamp to her, c/o Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail.

Gilbert Hurls 6-Hit Shutout; Extend Streak to Six Straight

At precisely 11:30 o'clock last night at municipal stadium, after five hours of frost-bitten struggling, it was definitely established that Buck Farmer's Stroudsburg Poconos would not win a game in Kingston this season. Time and the N.A.L. schedule had just run out on them.

Kingston swept both ends of the doubleheader, 8 to 0 and 13 to 8, stretching their budding streak to six straight, and increasing their margin over the second place Carbondale Blues to four and a half games.

Gilbert Hurls Shutout

Alton Gilbert twirled a gaudy four-hitter to achieve his second shutout in the opener, while Harry Hintz executed a noble relief pitching stint to grab the win in the nightcap.

Manager Buck Farmer waited just about as long as he could before unveiling his ace, Joe Seber, in the first game, but the pugnacious-looking southpaw suffered the same fate that has victimized all N.A.L. star hurlers in the up-town orchard—he got his ears pinned back. Being a man of determination, if nothing else, Mr. Seber was back on the scene before the nightcap ended, only that was a desperation measure designed to terminate the game some time between midnight and dawn.

Hot Coffee, Please

The games were played under crisp, cool, ideal football conditions and even horse blankets began to pop up midway through the dull attempts at consuming nearly three hours. Tom Murray's concession began doling out hot coffee and did a booming business. The vast majority of spectators, however, caught short without their Arctic clothing decided it would be best to leave the clubs to their frigid fumbling and two-thirds of the park was cleared out halfway through the nightcap. It was with large crocodile tears that Manager George Pratt bid farewell to the good ship Poconos as it sailed serenely toward the Delaware Water Gap. They had been pleasant, cooperative guests throughout the season. In eight appearances here, the Poconos rolled over and played dead seven times and achieved an epic 0-0 tie in a four-inning game. Three other games will not be made up as the Poconos have finished their campaigning in Kingston.

Some Details: Leave us not harass you with the gruesome details of the night, but it is noteworthy to mention that:

1. Manager George Pratt singled the first time up, pulled a charley horse going into second, and retired in favor of Rudy Antonek.

2. Chris Kitzos was rapped in the eye and cheek by a flying spike in the fifth inning of the nightcap, was rushed to the Kingston Hospital but released after treatment. He will be back in the lineup tonight against "Butch" Sawatski and the Bloomingdale Troopers.

3. Alton Gilbert had a bulk called against him for standing on the pitching rubber without possession of the bag. Alton wasn't trying to fool the Poconos. They had been mesmerized from the outset.

Yields 6 Hits
Gilbert pitched a masterful six-hitter in the opener and was in danger only once. With Kopsic on first, Shupper hit to Gilbert, who threw wild past first. Antonek made a fast recovery holding Kopsic on second and then nailed Shupper on an attempted steal. Stroudsburg got two of their six hits in the first but Gilbert fanned two.

Seber was an impressive specimen in the first two frames, striking out four, but the roof fell on him in the third when Kitzos and Kowalski doubled. Williams walked and Kerr, Rosa and Orlemann punched singles for a quartet of tallies. Seber lingered through the fourth, yielding two more runs on singletons by Kerr and Kowalski, two walks and Newhard's sacrifice.

Too Good at Start
Babe Wood, Stroudsburg starter, fanned the first two batters he faced in the nightcap, thereby setting himself up for the inevitable. He fanned Williams with Kitzos and Kowalski aboard but failed to survive the second heat.

In this weird session, Kitzos and Williams, Orlemann and Antonek stroked, Kerr, Newhard, Pratt and Seddon singled for seven runs, 13 men went to bat. Reliever Semkowski was liberal with his free passes in the fourth, doling out five which spiced with a double by Newhard and Antonek's single racked up three runs.

Just by way of showing Mr. Seber that he was the same fellow they had faced in the opener, the Dodgers raked him for two in the eighth, when Kowalski rifled a sharp single to center behind a

Sawatski Hits 30th Homer

"Butch" Sawatski, Bloomingdale's hard hitting catcher, poled his 30th home run of the season last night, as the Bloomingdale Troopers, split a doubleheader with Nazareth. Sawatski, who has failed to hit a homer in municipal stadium this season, will be here tonight at 8:30.

WALT KOWALSKI

The Dodgers' sparkling third sacker who batted a sensational clip in the four-game series against Stroudsburg, Kowalski slammed out 9 hits in 16 trips, including a double, two triples and home run, and knocked in 12 runs.

Thai Mun Is Here Again!

Carl "Butch" Sawatski, the solid citizen from Bloomingdale, will be at municipal stadium tonight trying to shatter a hitting jinx that has hounded him in four previous engagements here. You see, "Butch" is the new Babe Ruth of the North Atlantic League, having already blasted 29 out of the park.

Mr. Sawatski is a ruggedly built young man, who might be mistaken for a fire plug, and his home run heroics have been just short of sensational, to turn a phrase. Despite his four base power, Sawatski has been almost helpless before Dodger hurling at the stadium. At the moment he has a Kingston BA of exactly .230, with three hits, all singles, in 13 trips. And he has jammed into a pair of double plays.

A Hectic Week-end:

"Butch" recently enjoyed quite a week-end against the Dodgers in Bloomingdale. Among other things, he smashed four home runs, a double, two grand slam blows and drove in 14 runs. It seems that every time the bases were loaded, Sawatski was blasting the ball out of sight.

Sawatski wants a homerun in Kingston badly. It's the only park in the league where he has failed to connect for at least one circuit clout. The spacious stadium terrain isn't conducive to overproduction of four-ply wallops and he could well hit several long "outs" that would be homers in other ball orchards. In any event he'll be up there swinging and Mr. Sawatski swinging from way back there is a stirring sight indeed.

Folsom and Jetsam:

Bob Beal, the Poughkeepsie Recreation superintendent, sends along some data on the regional softball tourney slated for the Bridge City on August 16-17. . . . We hope Jason Goumas can round up an all-star team to represent Kingston. . . . Newburgh muffers will be heavy favorites to win. Each team is permitted to 20 players, restricted to Dutchess, Ulster, Columbia, Orange, Putnam, Greene and Sullivan counties. . . . The winning team will be eligible to compete in the New York State championships in Rochester on August 22-24. Rotary Club of Poughkeepsie will present a trophy to the regional champions. . . . Old Double X, Jimmy Fox, will appear with the Brooklyn Dodger Rookies against the Newburgh All Stars on Sunday. . . . Dodger Rookies, once popular in Kingston, served as the springboard for A. E. "Turk" Karam's connections with the Brooklyn Dodger organization.

Scoreless Streak Ends at 25:

Lanky Ted Seddon has been fined $5 for his altercation with Umpire Harry Simmons in Nazareth, but what really hurt was the fact that his scoreless pitching streak of 25 2/3 innings was snapped, and he was powerless to sustain it. . . . He shut out Carbondale and Nyack and had gone 7 2/3 stanzas against Nazareth when Simmons gave him the hook. . . . There were runners on first and third and Harry Hintz, the reliever, was unable to keep them from pay dirt. . . . The argument with Simmons developed when Seddon charged the umpire with interference on a play at home plate after a wild pitch. . . . Said Mr. Seddon: "Why the hell don't you stay out of the way?" He spat the equally determined umpire: "Young man, you have complete your duties for the evening." . . . President "The Duke" Landgraf has since imposed a $5 fine on Seddon. . . . Lefty Joe Jordan's pitching a late season City League sensation. . . . And Emil Jordan, no relation but his sponsor, has agreed to that free-lager deal. . . . Lou "Chic" Provenzano happiest man in town. . . . His Hofbrau nine is "in" for the playoffs.

Of Men and Mice:

The commotion would be awful if Carlie Husta and Bob Hervog hooked up in a golf match. . . . We have never seen a boxing crowd pull so hard for an underdog to win as they did Thursday in the Georgia Kaplan-Mitchell Luck bout. . . . The women are far more rabid than the stronger species in the sanguinary trip of rooting home winners in boxing. . . . From what we see at the ringside some of those gals are plain blood-thirsty. . . . And not a few of them bowl very well, too.

MEMO TO "AN OLD TIMER"—We checked the Don Rhio case thoroughly. The injury was not suffered in a City League contest. It was a recurrence of an old injury.

Saratoga Track Opens Monday

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP)—Horse racing comes back to Saratoga Monday and the bustling little spa city has put out a gaudy welcome mat—just as if bettors were not $25,000,000 under last year at New York tracks.

On the eve of the 84th season at America's oldest track, Saratoga is concerned with but not talking about the general decline in attendance and betting this spring at metropolitan plants.

The up-country resort community of 15,000 is pointing toward 1947 racing with optimism based on record attendance and wagering last year when the thoroughbreds returned to Saratoga after a three-year wartime switch to New York city tracks.

The swanky nightclubs have been unboarded. Bigtime entertainers have been imported. The 19th century, high-pillared hotel facades have been polished and painted. The city is ready for an influx of visitors expected to triple its population.

Poughkeepsie Grabs Lead in Colonial

(By The Associated Press)

The Poughkeepsie Giants, by splitting even with the Stamford Bombers while the Waterbury Timers were dropping a decision to Portchester, assumed leadership in the Colonial Baseball League by a slim margin of four percentage points last night.

Poughkeepsie took the first game of the twin bill 7-3 but the Bombers came back in the nightcap to win 6-2. Waterbury dropped the verdict to Port Chester 6-2 with the Clippers losing the game in the third inning when five straight hits accounted for four runs. Portchester's left fielder, Neil Kelly ended the game by attempting to steal, second with all the basesteals occupied.

Bridgeport defeated the New London Raiders 4-3 in the other game, scheduled.

Greyhound Returns To Goshen Track

(By The Associated Press)

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 2—Greyhound, world's champion trotter, will return for the last time to the scene of his greatest single triumph, victory in the 1935 Hambletonian stake, on August 6 when the $55,000 sulky derby is renewed at Good Time Park here.

Fastest trotter in the world with a mark of 1:55 4/5 for the mile, Greyhound, now 15 years old, will trot an exhibition mile between Hambletonian heats raced by the current crop of three-year-olds. The great gelding is owned by E. J. Baker, St. Charles, Ill.

Triple Tie for Third Delays Start of City Loop Playoffs

City Baseball League officials are scurrying for those three-way headache powders with a triple deadlock for third place almost assured, as Boulevard Gulf won on forfeit from West Shore yesterday, while Morgan's Restaurant is a solid choice to defeat Frank's Sport Shop in one of the two remaining contests.

Hofbrau clinched second place early this week while Chez Emile and the Boulevard have completed their nine-game slate with identical records of 6-3.

Morgan's, with 5-3, are the choice to make it six at the expense of Frank's, and create the triple deadlock. Details Awaited

Meanwhile, with the four game playoff scheduled to start at the earliest date possible, President Warren Smith and league officials are faced with a possible round robin series among the three contenders for two positions.

West Shore bowed out of the picture ignominiously with nine straight setbacks, climaxing an ill-fated adventure.

Chicub Pilot Coaches Himself Out of Game

(By The Associated Press)

Chicago, Aug. 2 (AP)—Trying to score against the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers is dangerous business, even on the sidelines. Manager Charley Grimm of the Chicago Cubs, while coaching at third base yesterday, exhorted his athletes with such vigor that he pulled a muscle in his left leg and had to retire to the bench.

The Cubs not only stopped Dem Bums with a 3-5 victory, but also scored a triumph at the concession stands.

Both Chicago and Brooklyn baseball caps were sold by Wrigley Field vendors during the game. The score, according to Concession Manager Ray Kneip, was: Chicago, 3,662; Dodgers, 512.

Yesterday's Stars

BATTING, Clyde McCullough, Cubs—Blasted Dodgers' 13-game win streak with two-run homer in ninth inning off Hugh Casey for 10-8 victory.

PITCHING, Freddie Hutchinson, Tigers—Limited Boston to six hits and drove in all Detroit scores with sixth-inning triple for 3-1 decision.

Snapping of Dodger Streak at Thirteen Climaxes Majors' Week of "Heartbreaks"

BY JACK HAND

(Associated Press Sportswriter)

Brooklyn's 13-game win spree is the latest casualty of baseball's "heartbreak week" which also saw the end of Cincinnati's 12-game win streak.

Add to these disappointments the collapse of the Boston Red Sox who went into a four-game losing tailspin after seven straight victories and the end on Monday of the New York Giants' consecutive game home run streak at 15.

Although the St. Louis Cardinals pulled out of their downward plunge by thumping the Phillies last night, 6-1, it might very well be that the Red Birds' pennant hopes also died during the week in three straight defeats at the hands of the Dodgers.

Chicago ended the Brooks' longest success story since 1924 with a 10-8 triumph engineered by Catcher Clyde McCullough's two-run homer in the ninth inning.

Hatten Jinx Falls
Joe Hatten, an old Cub-tamer from way back with eight consecutive wins over Chicago to his credit in the two-year span, was roasted and ready to hang up the Dodger's 14th triumph. But he was not around at the finish when Hugh Casey threw the home run ball to McCullough to end a stormy afternoon.

The Cubs knocked out Hatten in the sixth and finally tied the score in the seventh inning of a free-hitting contest.

Both New York and St. Louis won, clipping the Dodgers' lead to nine games, with the Giants holding a one percentage point edge on the Cards for second place.

Dave Koslo was in superb form as he lounded the Giants to a 2-1 edge over Pittsburgh, striking out Hank Greenberg three times. In fact, Koslo, enroute to his 12th success, whiffed Ralph Kiner, Greenberg and Wally Westlake in succession in the second and ninth.

Kuroski Hits Two

Murry Dickson and Whitey Kuroski teamed up on the Phils to assure St. Louis of the 6-1 edge. Dickson allowed only five hits and singled home the winning run in the fifth. Kuroski homered off Schoolboy Rowe in the second and after he was dumped into the dirt by an inside pitch in the eighth, blasted Rowe's second delivery into the left field seats with Erv Dusak and Chuck Diering on base.

Boston lost ground in the race, splitting two with Cincinnati. Johnny Sain hurled the Braves to a 4-2 edge in

Esopus Democratic Social Club Meeting

County Chairman Thomas Plunkett and County Secretary William Kelly visited the Town of Esopus Democratic Social Club Wednesday night at Esopus. The monthly meeting of the club was held at the Esopus Fire House, with a huge turnout of members and friends. Mr. Kelly, addressing the club appreciated with delight the interest shown by the women in the town with regard to activity in politics and stressed the need for their continued support both as active officeholders and voters. Mr. Plunkett, defined the political workings of this country and urged all present to take an active part in registration and voting, to insure our stability as the just bulwark of democracy. The committee designated to stage a clambake reported that plans are being made to hold the bake shortly. Edward R. Eckert, president of the organization informed all present that the Democratic Caucus would be held in the Town Hall at Port Jervis, on Thursday, August 7, and urged all residents of the town to appear and choose those candidates to appear on the ballots for November's election. Immediately following the meeting a social evening was held in the Esopus Inn.

Freak Hands Defy Laws of Bidding

BY WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
American Card Authority
Written for N.E.A. Service
Have you ever noticed that after you have played bridge for a couple of hours, a very freakish hand suddenly comes up? They are the hands that every expert fears.

When someone rushes up and asks, "How would you bid this hand?", the expert does not like to give an opinion, because anything can happen in a freak hand.

In today's hand, for example, with South making an original bid, can you blame North for his shut-out bid of four spades? It certainly looked as if there was no holding on which he could lose.

East, who felt quite sure that North and South would make their contract, put in a rather cute bid of four trump. He did not want to play the hand at four trump, nor was the bid made to ask his partner how many aces he held.

It simply said, "Partner, you and I have a good sacrifice against this hand, and I want you to bid your best minor suit."

South's double also had a definite meaning. It asked North, if he was opening lead, to open a spade. West's redouble certainly confused the issue.

North, whose hand was entirely worthless outside of spades, decided to bid five spades. You can see that East and West could have made five clubs without much trouble.

The defense of the hand as it actually occurred at the table was very good. After holding the first trick, East shifted to the jack of clubs. Declarer had nothing to lose by going up with the king in dummy.

West won and returned the the apparel group between May and June. This loss was much smaller than the decreases recorded in April and May. Most of the drop again occurred in the women's outerwear industry. Small employment gains were made in men's suit and coat firms, in millinery, fur goods and children's clothing.

Most branches of food processing industry reported increases in both employment and payrolls. Seasonal gains occurred in ice cream plants and canneries and breweries, with wage-rate increases in many of the latter. Sugar refineries hired additional workers and raised payrolls 20 per cent because of overtime work. Gains were reported also by flour millers and bakeries.

Increases in the stone, clay and glass industry were due mainly to the settlement of a strike in cement plants.

Employment was down slightly in textile and paper mills but payrolls increased.

In Philadelphia police arrested two youths, Daniel Tapper, 17, of Camden, N. J., and Sid Troy, of New York, and charged them with malicious mischief. They were arrested when a group of painters were surprised sneaking slogans and swastikas on the Philadelphia Savings Fund Society building which houses the British consulate.

Chemist Tells How to Remove Fruit Stains

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Most fruit stains may be removed when they are fresh by pouring on boiling water. But there are exceptions to this general rule, says Margaret Furry, textile chemist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The exceptions are fresh peach, pear, cherry or plum stains which contain enough tannin to be darkened and set by heat. On stains made by these four fruits, use cool water and glycerine or a soapless shampoo. (Never use soap because it sets the stain.) First, sponge the stain with cool water. Then work a little glycerine or soapless shampoo into the stain, rubbing lightly between the hands. Let stand several hours, then apply a few drops of vinegar and allow to remain a minute or two before rinsing thoroughly with water.

This same method is recommended for fruit stains on wool or silk. On these fabrics boiling water should never be used, because it may injure the fabric.

Cool water and glycerine are also recommended for stains made by tomato juice and catsup.

Packers Out of Their Pickle
After puzzling for months over a pile of pickled proposals, the nation's perplexed picklers have picked a name for their quick-pick pickles. The prize winner is "quickie."

The pickle packers, in a pickle trying to find a uniform name to replace the confusing variety of names being used, have chosen quick-pick or "overnight" pickle products, appealed to the public. They explained that these pickles were no longer cucumbers because they had been processed, and yet they were not exactly pickles in the old sense of the word because they had not been through the long pickling process which normally lasts several months.

The names poured in—picum-pick, yumadilly, cuckie, picklet, cucie, zickle, pick-a-dilly, pixie, and quickie, to mention a few.

At the association's mid-year meeting at the Palmer House, they decided that "quickie" is the best name for this popular addition to the pickle line.

Carriage Stuck

New York, Aug. 2 (AP)—With a perspiring passenger in evening dress lending an ineffectual hand, the driver of a horse-drawn carriage attracted a Times Square audience estimated at 2,000 with his frantic efforts to dislodge a wheel which became stuck in an abandoned trolley car line rail at 1:30 a. m. today. The carriage, which usually runs in Central Park, finally was freed by a police emergency squad using jacks.
